Has anyone installed A Microsoft product.. ANY of them.. Windows will completely take over your system and give you NO options as to what it installs or how to configure it. Will change your desktop appearance and many many other traps and info gathering shit that you have no idea how they use it or who they share it with... I think Windows should be an operating system ONLY.. and sell or market it's layered products separately, but they should be allowed to market anything they want.. just don't package it to where I have no choice as to what gets installed on my system...
